

A high supervised score alone never promotes a model — every gate below it must pass first.